Homi Bhabha and the Tata Institute of Fundamental Research

Ananya Dasgupta

ICTS, Bangalore

The Tata Institute of Fundamental Research was founded in 1945 by Homi Bhabha. Through archival documents, photographs and oral history interviews, this account will present a narration of the institute's history from its birth till Bhabha's death in 1966.

About the Speaker: Ananya Dasgupta began her career as a journalist with The Telegraph, Kolkata. She worked as an editor with the Tata Institute of Fundamental Research Archives in Mumbai, where she was responsible for the TIFR Oral History Project. She is now an editorial consultant with the International Centre for Theoretical Sciences, Bangalore. She has co-authored the book A Masterful Spirit: Homi Jehangir Bhabha 1909-1966 (Penguin Books, 2010).
